Receiver Susherland takes the position that he is unable to raise wages at this time without instructions from the Supreme Court. The receiver being under the protection of the court is compelled to do only that which the court demands. It is said that Mr. Sutherland consequently will make no attempt to run the cars unless instructed to do so by the court, a possibility that is considered remote, since the operation of the cars would lead to rioting on the part of strike sympathizers, with whom the streets are filled.

The plaintiffs moved before Justice Erlanger to compel him to make his answer more definite and certain, saying that he ought to be able to affirm or deny that he ought to be able to affirm or deny the allegations.

In his affidavit in opposition Mr. Bennett said that when he served his answer the ice company's books were in the possession of James W. Osborne, who had impounded them in the criminal prosecution of the ice company. He had been a director, but couldn't fix the dates, he said. The dividend was paid on the figures of earnings submitted by the auditor, and he doesn't believe the auditor made any false statements. So far as he knows the company never paid any dividend except out of earnings.

Justice Erlanger decided that Mr. Bennett must certainly know whether he was a director at that time and to meet the allegation as he did is a mere evasion.

RUSSIAN RAILWAY CHANGES. Commissioner Here to Study Our System

Prof. de Chatelaine. who has been at the Belmont for a few days, left last night for Pittsburg.

"The Government has decided that all the railways within a radius of 100 kilomethe raiways within a radius of 160 kilometers (about sixty-two miles) of St. Peters burg shall be electrified," said Prof. de Chatelaine yesterday. "Of course we have the electric trolleys in St. Petersburg, but this is a really great undertaking. At present the various railways entering the capital use steam, and this of course has the same objections it has in a great American city. "Aware that it is in the United States that most has been done with long dis-that most has been done with long dis-tance electric railways and with the transmission of high power for consider-able distances, the Council of Ministers selected me to come over here and make-a thorough study of the problems that have been met with and overcome, and the methods. After some observations in the methods. After some observations in Pittsburg I shall go to Niagara, then to Jefferson City, then to Colorado, Cali-fornia and next to Mexico, returning by way of New York."

The Board of Estimate's committee on alaries and grades decided yesterday to report in favor of increasing the salary of fourth grade firemen, who now get $800 the proposals to increase the salaries of the other grades which range from $1,000 to $1,400.
